No 183.

LONDON.

BY the laſt Mail from Holland we had Advice from Italy, that the Duke de Montemar, in purſuance of an Order he received from the Court of Madrid, agreed with the Count de Kevenhuller, General of the Emperor's Troops, to prolong the Suſpenſion of Arms between the Troops on both Sides, three Months beyond the Term laſt agreed on (which was the 13th Inſtant O. S.) and that the ſaid Prolongation has been proclaimed in both Armies. Mean time the Duke de Montemar has reinforced the Spaniſh Gariſon in Mirandola, with 1500 Men, in conſequence of Orders from the King of Spain, who ſeems abſolutely reſolved to maintain the Rights of the Duke of Mirandola to the Dutchy of that Name.

According to Letters from Rome, the Pope and Cardinals are in the utmoſt Perplexity how to anſwer and ſatisfy the Remonſtrances and Complaints with which they are continually teazed, from the Towns and Villages in the Eccleſiaſtical State, which are now occupied by the Troops of the Emperor. In one Day, viz. on the 7th Inſtant, they received no leſs than three Couriers, viz. one from Ferrara, another from Bologna, and a third from Ancona. By the firſt they had an Account from the Legate, that he was not able to furniſh Subſiſtance for the Imperial Troops quartered there, for above twelve Days longer; and that, if he had not a freſh Supply ſent him out of hand, it was to be feared the Troops would make uſe of their Superiority, as they had already began to do in the Territories of Bologna; ſo that the Court thought themſelves obliged to ſend him a Remittance that very Night. By the ſecond the Agent of Bologna received Advice from the Legate, that the Imperialiſts who were billetted in that Province, began to live at Diſcretion, becauſe he had not wherewithal to ſatisfy their full Demands, that Province only being obliged to contribute 2000 Crowns a Day; upon which his Holineſs gave him Leave to take what was neceſſary to anſwer them, out of thoſe ſacred Funds called the Lombards, or Mounts of Piety. By the third the Agent of Ancona received Advice from the Regency, which he immediately carried to the Cardinal Corſini, the Pope's Secretary of State, that beſides the 30,000 Imperialiſts quartered in the Provinces of the Eccleſiaſtical State near Lombardy, 2000 Germans were landed at the Port of Ancona, from Trieſte, which were alſo to be followed by two or three thouſand more, for whom Harbingers were come to demand Quarters, not only there, but at Recanati, Tolentino, Macerata, Foligno, and other Places of St. Peter's Patrimony; ſo that they were apprehenſive it would not be long ere the Germans would extend themſelves to the very Suburbs of Rome. In ſhort, the Imperialiſts are ſaid to live at this Time upon the Eccleſiaſtical State, after the Manner of the Troops of the ancient Roman Emperors, when thoſe Monarchs went to Rome to be crowned there, or when other Affairs called them to Italy. They moreover expect a Reinforcement of 24 Battalions, and 7 or 8 Regiments of Horſe, which, when all arrived, they will be able to form an Army of 80,000 Men; but perhaps the Reinforcement will be countermanded, when the Moderation of the Spaniards is conſidered, who are willing to content themſelves, according to the Preliminaries of Vienna, with leſs than a Moiety of what the Queen of Spain once had in View for the Infante Don Carlos.

Mean time the Pope is almoſt at the Ne plus ultra of his Infallibility how to ſupport his Subjects, and, at the ſame time, to ſhew as much Hoſpitality to the Imperial Troops as he has done to the Spaniards. He has remitted to Bologna and Ferrara 80,000 Crowns, as ſome ſort of Indemnification to the Inhabitants of thoſe Provinces for what they have already ſuffered; and 6000 Crowns to Fano in St. Peter's Patrimony for the ſame Purpoſe. But the great Expences the Court of Rome is at, and muſt be put to, upon this Account, have made it neceſſary to hold ſeveral Congregations of Cardinals, in which various Expedients have been propoſed for raiſing the conſiderable Sums that are neceſſary to defray them. Among others it was propoſed, for the Eaſe of the Subjects, to lay a new Tax upon Leather; but the Shoemakers in general having vigorouſly remonſtrated againſt it, the ſame was unanimouſly rejected, as were ſome other new Taxes, to which the Pope himſelf has an Averſion; and 'tis ſaid, he has ordered Part of the old Species that have lain ſo long in Iron Cheſts in the Caſtle of St. Angelo, to be re-coined, there being a Poſſibility of doing it now with conſiderable Gain, conſidering the Difference in Value betwixt the old Species and the new.

At the ſame time the Cardinal Miniſters have complain'd to the Emperor's Miniſter the Count de Harrach, of the great Number of Troops ſent to live upon the Territory of the Church, and have demanded what Reaſons induced the Emperor to act in that Manner: But all the Anſwer his Miniſter return'd was, 'That 'his Imperial Majeſty had not yet informed him of his 'Motives; but that as his Majeſty always made Juſtice 'and Equity the Rule of his Actions, he could not 'but have very ſolid Reaſons for ordering his Troops 'to take thoſe Quarters which they now poſſeſs.' However the Count promis'd to write about it to Vienna.

The Letters from Italy add, that the Spaniards have abandon'd all their Poſts in the Mountains of Tuſcany, and were retiring towards Florence.

They write from VIENNA, that nothing is talk'd of there, but the enſuing Grand Marriage, and that both the City and Court are employ'd inceſſantly in the neceſſary Preparations for that Feſtival. They are not only preparing a magnificent Service of Plate for it both of Gold and Silver; but tho' no leſs than 136 Embroiderers are employ'd Day and Night, they have been oblig'd to ſend for other Hands, both from Saxony and Bohemia, to get Things ready by the Day of Marriage, and even their Poets have been forced to implore the Aids of Foreign Muſes, for the Epithalamium, and the other Panegyricks ſuitable to the Occaſion. The City of Nuremberg has beſpoke a magnificent Service of Plate for the Archdutcheſs; and the Dutcheſs of Lorain has ſent her a Roſe of Diamonds to a great Value. The Queen of France has alſo ſent her Six Pieces of the richeſt Stuffs in that Kingdom, and deſigns her another Preſent of Diamonds for her Stays, which will ſurpaſs all that were ever ſeen of the kind. 'Tis ſaid the Queen of Spain alſo intends to make the Princeſs a Preſent worthy of her Acceptance.

Letters from Bruſſels ſay, that upon this Occaſion the Magiſtrates intend to have Illuminations for 3 Days ſucceſſively; and that they have order'd a Machine to be erected in the great Market-place, for playing off a magnificent Fire-work, which the Archdutcheſs, Governeſs of the Auſtrian Netherlands, will honour with her Preſence; and on the Day of Marriage, the Magiſtrates propoſe to make a ſumptuous Collation for that Princeſs, and then to entertain the Nobility with a Ball.

From the London Gazette.

Warſaw, Jan. 18. N. S. The Palatin of Vitepsk has offered to come hither and make his Submiſſion, provided this Court would give him 4000 Ducats, which they have refuſed to do, thinking it would be a bad Example for others, and that all thoſe Gentlemen at Koningsberg will be obliged to ſubmit on more reaſonable Terms, which if they ſoon do, we may very likely have another Dyet in the Spring. King Auguſtus has taken off all the Penſions, which, at his coming to the Crown, he had granted to ſeveral of his Electors for their Tables, becauſe of the great Complaints they made of the Loſſes they ſuſtained from the other Party, which are now removed. It is to be observed,

(For the Satisfaction of all Persons, who are fearful and doubtful of using any Publick Medicines)

That there never was, nor will be, a good and beneficial Medicine published to the World, without finding Enemies, whose Interest it is, not only to decry and vilify, but often to counterfeit it; and the better the Medicine, the greater the Opposition: Therefore all doubtful People should have Recourse to Experience, the infallible Attester of Truth, without Prejudice or Partiality. Let them enquire of the Success of the Medicine, either where it is sold, but rather of those who have used it; and if they are informed the Effects of it answer the Intentions, let them freely use it, without regarding what Malice, Interest, or Prejudice may suggest against it. Several People envying the Success of my Medicine, have trump'd up several Counterfeits, and, with a deal of pompous Scurrility, impose upon ignorant People; but Ne sit decipi decipiatur. If People will not hear the Serpents Hiss, let them be stung into Experience and future Caution.
